A Special Christmas Story

The Inn

By Bill Hays, The News Regular Columnist

The night was unusually clear, no moon, only brilliant stars which shown with the intensity of the burning embers on the hearth within the well kept inn. The chill of the night had not yet come and it was pleasant inside the large room. Over the fire a small hock of meat slowly cooked sending its aroma gently into the surrounding air and tantalizing the nostrils of the guests. The room was well lighted enough to reveal the faces of the various guests who sat about the table waiting for the evening meal to be served.

Claudius, the soldier, dressed in his military uniform, tall and resplendent, towered above the others. His strong square jaw bespoke the power and intensity of his soul. His aquiline nose, reddened from the sundrenched days, reflected the ruddy spirit of his profession. As a soldier he said little.

Back in one corner of the room Hedenious, the famous dancer, lounged languorously in a large comfortable chair with the grace of the tired dove returned from heaven. She, too, said nothing but choose to remain in silence, recounting all her triumphs and observing with large seductive eyes Claudius, whenever he in turn was not observing her.

Brackus, the merchant, was fat and slightly bald but had all the found qualities of the court jester, though he was the shrewdest trader in any bargain. He sat pompously in his magnificent robes and thought of the supper to be had and its approximate cost in gold.

Next to him sat the Scribe, a tall, slender man no longer young who regreted the passage of time because it brought him one day closer to oldness and death and then oblivion. He had never understood life nor did he feel able to ever understand it. His only solace was his daily writing and recording of events about him, his hope to immortality.

Hector, the landowner, came in to the room with a pretense of joviality, his large jowls flabber-

Hosts for the occasion will be their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Koon of Memphis. All friends are invited. No formal invitations will be sent.

On Dec. 29, 1909 Miss Hester Craig Brittain became the bride of Lee B. Rucker, in a quiet ceremony, performed by the Rev. H. W. Brooks, then pastor of the First Methodist Church. The ceremony was witnessed by the families, in the home of the bride, "Craig Villa", located two miles west of the city on State Line.

On the Sunday of the ceremony six inches of snow had fallen and the thermometer registered below zero.

Charles Fowler, owner of the first livery barn in Fulton, drove the wedding party to Fulton in carriages heated with hot bricks and rocks, at 7 p. m. that evening and a large crowd of young people riced the popular young couple all the way up to the station platform. Mr. and Mrs. Rucker took a train to New Orleans, where they spent their honeymoon, in the famous Grumwald Hotel, now The Roosevelt.

Fifty years of marriage to this much beloved couple has been interesting and remunerative to the surrounding community. They have done much for their friends and acquaintances. They have

Church Observes 175th American Anniversary

When The Methodist Church in America was organized 175 years ago this week, Methodist activity in Tennessee was already ten years old.

A Methodist "class" had been meeting near Bluff City in East Tennessee since 1774 when a 1784 "Christmas Conference" was held in Baltimore, Md., to formally organize the denomination.

The church took note of "the great migration to the west" in 1786, and by 1840 the present Memphis Methodist Conference had been organized at Jackson, Tenn., just 22 years after the territory had been purchased from the Chickasaw Indians.

Since then the conference, which includes West Tennessee and eight Western Kentucky Counties, has established 548 churches with a membership of 119,060. Assets are put at more than $32 million, and the conference's institutions include Methodist Hospital in Memphis and Lambuth College at Jackson.

Churches will observe the denomination's 175th American anniversary with services the week beginning December 27. And some 400 Methodist ministers from throughout the nation will participate in commemoration services in observance of the first Christmas Conference in Baltimore December 28-31.

Food-Relation To Health, Farm-Home Week Subject

The 48th Farm and Home Week is sponsored by the UK Cooperative Extension Service, the UK College of Agriculture and the UK Agricultural Experiment Station. It opens on Tuesday, Jan. 26 with a one-day training session on leadership.

M. R. Jeffress Named County Agricultural Chairman Here

M. R. Jeffress, Cashier, Fulton Bank, Fulton has been named as County Agricultural Chairman of Fulton County for the Kentucky Bankers Association by Roland Fitch, President of the bankers group.

As County Agricultural Chairman Mr. Jeffress will be the official representative of the Kentucky Bankers Association in activities designed to increase farm income and improve the welfare of rural communities. Such activities include the encouragement of new and improved farm practices, the support of youth leadership training in 4-H Clubs and FFA Chapters, and cooperation with farm leaders and agencies in holding educational tours, field days and achievement meetings.

The Kentucky Bankers Association recently won national recognition for its outstanding farm program. At its last state convention the association received a Special Certificate of Merit from the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation in appreciation for its aid to the agricultural development and educational programs. It was also awarded the American Bankers Association's 20 Year Agricultural Award for superior services to agriculture during the past two decades.

President Fitch said commercial banks are by far the largest suppliers of farm credit in the state. On January 1, 1959, Kentucky banks had 138 million dollars outstanding in farm real estate and non-real estate loans, an increase of 9 percent over the preceding year. Besides supplying farm credit, banks also provide, among other services, checking accounts and safe depositories for their customers.

Aliens To Report Their Addresses

Thomas M. Pederson, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service stated that aliens in the United States will be required to report their addresses to the Attorney General within the near future.

All aliens, with few exceptions, who are in the United States on January 1 each year must report their addresses by the end of that month. Only the following classes of aliens are excused from this requirement: (1) Accredited Diplomats; (2) Persons accredited to certain international organizations; and (3) Those admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers.

Forms with which to make the report can be obtained from any Post Office or Immigration Office during the month of January.

Mr. Pederson said that the law provides severe penalties for failure to comply with the reporting requirement.

Repairs Planned For Little Known, Often Mentioned Mason-Dixon Line

Everybody talks about it. But few know just where the Mason-Dixon Line runs, and fewer still how it came about.

In popular American parlance, the Mason-Dixon boundary divides North from South - an assumption based largely on the mistaken belief that during the Civil War it separated the Confederate States from the Union.

In fact, the line was drawn to end an early colonial land dispute. It extends, from east to west, between Pennsylvania and Maryland, with a shorter branch reaching southward between Maryland and Delaware. All three States were on the Union side.

The old border is again in the news because of plans to restore its markers for a 200th-anniversary celebration in 1963.

Ended Century of Dispute

The Mason-Dixon Line was named for two English surveyors, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, says the National Geographic Society. Skilled mathematicians and astronomers, they were invited to the American Colonies in 1763 to mark the boundary finally agreed upon by long-feuding proprietors and heirs of Maryland and Pennsylvania land grants.

The controversy began in the mid-1600's, when the Dutch Government and the Calverts of Maryland both claimed the big peninsula between the Delaware and Chesapeake bays.

After the Dutch were pushed out of the region, William Penn inherited the dispute with his royal charter for Pennsylvania and adjoining land. The bickering over conflicting interpretations of Penn and Calvert charters continued for generations, and the case eventually came before England's Court of Chancery.

The Court gave a compromise decision in 1750. It specified that the delineation of the Pennsylvania-Maryland borders should begin at a certain point south-west of Philadelphia and west of New Castle.

From that point the main boundary was to be drawn westward. A second line would run southward into the heart of the peninsula and meet a third reaching eastward to the Atlantic coast. The proposed lines gave Maryland the bulk of the peninsula. Pennsylvania retained the northeast portion that later attained independence as Delaware State.

The disputants signed the agreement in 1760. Local surveyors then began work, but made so little progress that Mason and Dixon were called in.

Curiously, little is known of the two men who set up America's most famous boundary. Charles Mason was assistant astronomer at England's Greenwich Observatory. With Dixon, whose background is obscure, he had been sent abroad in 1761 to observe a transit of Venus.

The survey of the Pennsylvania-Maryland borders took four years. After checking and correcting the peninsula lines, Mason and Dixon took the westward trail in 1765 with a large party of assistant surveyors, axmen and guides. They covered some 230 miles of wild and beautiful country before hostile Indians forced them back.

But the job was already completed. The accuracy of their measurements has been proved by modern surveyors, who found a difference in latitude of only 2.3 seconds (180 feet) from the Mason-Dixon figure.

A new survey of the three States' boundaries was made in 1950. Most of the original stone markers were in place. Many had deteriorated, however, especially the original five-mile "crown stones" carved in England with Penn and Calvert arms on either side.

Besides repairing, strengthening, and resetting the worn and broken markers, mile by mile, officials of the restoration program will have to replace those lost, removed, or covered by dam waters, railways, and roads.

These are nights when our rails shine brightest under the stars of early winter, and in the headlight beams of our diesel locomotives snowflakes sparkle like the eyes of happy children. Or so, at least, it seems to us.

We feel this way because here in Mid-America the Illinois Central handles most of Santa's sleighwork. And each of us working for the railroad has a share in bringing happiness to the faces of youngsters all along our lines.

We are grateful that this railroad serves so many fine friends and neighbors. May all of you enjoy a Christmas season brimming with the blessings you so rightly deserve.

Miss Peggy Wilhaucks Becomes Bride Of Bobby McConnell Dec. 12

In a candlelight ceremony marked by simplicity and beauty, Miss Peggy Sue Wilhaucks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilhaucks of McConnell, Tenn. and Bobby Wade McConnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell of Troy, Tenn., exchanged wedding vows at the McConnell Baptist Church Saturday afternoon, Dec. 12, at two o'clock.

The Reverend Tommy Rose officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with greenery and flanked by large twin baskets of white gladioli. White bridal tapers in seven-branched wrought iron candelabra burned on each side.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Sandra Laird, organist, and Miss Lena Moss, vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of chantilly lace over taffeta which featured a Sabrian neckline, an empire bodice formed by an edging of seed pearls and long fitted sleeves coming to petal points over the hands. The bouffant skirt had extra fullness in the back.

A shoulder-length veil of misty illusion was attached to a halo crown of seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book overlaid with a purple throated orchid showered with narrow white satin ribbons.

Miss Beverly Laceywell served as the matron of honor. Miss Barbara Mason, cousin of the bride, was a bridesmaid.

Miss Avonda Hastings, cousin of the bride, served as the flower girl.

Jackie McConnell, cousin of the groom, served as the ringbearer.

Johnny McConnell, brother of the groom, served as best man and James Wilhaucks Jr. was groomsmen. Gene Miller and Lewis Robey served as ushers, and lighted the candles.

Following the ceremony, the couple left on a short wedding trip. For her travel attire the bride chose a dark brown wool suit, distinguished by a brown fur collar. She wore a beige flowered hat and other accessories. She pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder.

On their return, they will live at 514 West State Line, Fulton.

Following the rehearsal Friday evening the couple and the bridal party were entertained at a rehearsal party at the Wilhaucks home given by the bride-grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell.

Miss Nelle Fall Binford Becomes Bride Of Robert Quattlebaum, Jr.

On Friday evening, December 18, 1959, at 6:30 p. m., the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binford of Birmingham, Alabama, was the scene of the wedding of their daughter, Nelle Fall, to Mr. Robert Baskin Quattlebaum, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baskin Quattlebaum, Sr., of Roanoke, Alabama. The Reverend Aulen D. Montgomery of Canterbury Methodist Church officiated. The double ring ceremony was witnessed by members of the immediate families and close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white bouquet taffeta, designed with portrait neckline, elbow sleeves and butterfly bustle bow. Jeweled chantilly lace appliques outlined the neckline and sleeves, and were scattered over the bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a Mary Queen of Scots cap of matching lace and taffeta. She carried a white Bible topped with feathered carnations and illusion.

Miss Jane Binford, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in powder blue embroidered wool jersey with satin trim. She carried a french bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Quattlebaum was attended by Mr. George Wilkins of Nashville, Tennessee, as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Binford entertained with a small reception following the ceremony.

Mrs. Quattlebaum, granddaughter of Mrs. J. E. Fall, Sr., and the late Mr. Fall, and the late Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Binford of Fulton, Kentucky, was graduated from Shades Valley High School, Birmingham, Alabama. She attended Auburn University, where she was a member of Phi Mu Sorority.

Mr. Quattlebaum, grandson of Mrs. T. J. Mathews and the late Mr. Mathews of Sylacauga, Alabama, and Mrs. A. W. Quattlebaum and the late Dr. Quattlebaum of Savannah, Georgia, was graduated from Tart School in Waterbury, Connecticut. He received his degree from Vanderbilt University, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity. He served for two years in the United States Air Force, and is now a student at the University of Alabama School of Medicine, where he is a member of Phi Chi Medical Fraternity. After a brief honeymoon, the young couple will reside in Birmingham.

No Rate Hike For Martin

Martin's many gas consumers received good news this week when the mayor and aldermen decided that the city could absorb a gas increase made recently by the Texas Gas Co. At the same time, it was agreed that should any further increases be made by Texas Gas, the city would have to raise its rate.

The November billing of gas from Texas Gas was $673 higher than for the same amount used last year, an increase in the rate of slightly more than 8 percent. Projected into the coming year this will be an increase of about $3500 in the amount paid Texas Gas by the city.

"We are going to absorb this increase and we shall try to hold the line as long as possible," Mayor Jack Vincent stated. "We believe that we can take this increase without upping our rates."

"However, should Texas Gas make any additional rate increases, the city would have to raise the rates," the mayor stated.

RUCKERS—

been ready and responsive donors, assisting not only with their services, but with financial gifts to every worthy cause.

Mrs. Rucker, the former Hester Craig Brittain, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Brittain. She was born in the family residence, which was later owned by the late John Melton in East Fulton.

She attended and finished school at Carr Institute and Fulton High, while Mr. J. C. Cheek was principal. She attended the Centenary Female College in Cleveland and completed her education at Randolph Macon College, at Lynchburg, Virginia.

Mrs. Rucker is a niece of Jesse Whitsett and a direct descendant of Mr. and Mrs. James Houston Craig, and James Cullen Brittain, large landowners in Fulton, Hickman and Obion Counties.

Her grandparents gave large tracts of land to both the Mount Rose Christian Church and the Old Buckingham Baptist Church, which was also used as a meeting place for Fulton's Masonic and Odd Fellow Lodges, as Fulton had no other buildings in which to meet at that time.

Mrs. Rucker is a member of Epsilon Sigma Honorary and the National Phi Mu sororities. She is a charter member of the Fulton Woman's Club and an active member of the Business and Professional Woman's Club. She is now a member of the Susannah Wesley Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church and during her teens served several years as teacher of a class of teenagers, in the old Methodist Church.

Mr. Rucker is the son of Thomas G. and Sophia Belle Brown Rucker. He was born in Owensboro, Ky. He moved to Fulton with his parents in 1900.

Mr. Rucker is a direct descendant of Captain William Brown.
His great grandfather was builder of the Century-old Spottsville, Ky. dam and civil engineer of the famous Locks on Green and Barron Rivers. The old mill his grandfather, Capt. Brown, constructed is still a famous landmark.

Mr. Rucker attended school at Carr Institute and finished during the tutorage of Prof. Cheek.

He entered the grocery, feed and seed business with his brother, James M. Rucker, and father.
He was the first merchant in Fulton to own, operate and combine a complete fresh meat department with cold storage facilities and staples.

They had daily shipments of the finest fruits and vegetables, grown in Florida, California and Cuba.

After his marriage in 1909, Mr.
Rucker sold his business to R. W.
Lewis of this city and entered into a flourishing business on Lake Street with his wife. The business was known as the Ruckers Gift, Music and Flower Shopper. They ordered and sold pianos by the carloads. They had all types of musical instruments and accessories available.

The Ruckers were the first bonafide dealers for Edison, Victor, Columbia, Brunswick, and Sonora phonographs and the first radios, super-hetrodines, and panatropes to sell in Fulton.

They were representatives of Steinway, Baldwin, Krakaur, Kimball, Chickering and Adams Schaaf pianos.

They visited foreign markets and imported gifts, which were shipped to the Ruckers to adorn the shelves of the huge building.

The Ruckers operated the first and complete florist designing shop in Fulton and had representatives handling wedding and funeral decorations in 15 towns within a radius of 125 miles of Fulton.

During the year of 1930 they closed out their business and Mr.
Rucker joined the staff of workers as a scientific feed expert in balanced ration study for cattle and swine, and for 25 years he was with Browder Mill Inc., under the supervision of Joe Browder and Leon Browder. When Brow-der Mills of Union City, Fulton and Hickman were purchased by Bill Robinson, an outstanding businessman of East Tennessee, who was part-owner of the Fulton business, Mr. Rucker was given a position as manager of the Union City Grain Company, which is owned also by Mr. Robinson.

Mr. Rucker is a loyal member of the Busy Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist Church in Fulton.

Ferry-Morse Men Join Clubs Here

The following article was taken from "Plant Life", published by the Ferry-Morse Seed Company of

Supt. John Sullivan and Chief Accountant George Albritton.

Also, Asst. Foreman of the Packet Filling Department, Frank

line, are in the Masons. Clayton Joyce is in Rotary too; Harvey Johnson (Traffic Department) is

ginia Karr and Lucy Roberts

Wolberton And French Hold Dime Store Jobs

From The FHS "Kennel"—
by Martha Herring

As you know from the last issue of THE KENNEL, we are running in each edition a feature on two Seniors' jobs. This time the selection committee decided to run Judy Wolberton and Kay French, since they have similar jobs.

Judy Wolberton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wolberton. She is employed at Baldridges' 5c and 10c Store under the direction and management of Mr. Clyde Williams, Jr.

Judy has worked for Mr. Williams for a year now, and she likes her job very much. She says, "I have a wonderful opportunity to meet the public. Many interesting experiences have occurred during the past year."

Judy's job as saleslady has many various branches. Although her main duty is waiting on customers, she assists in filling up stock, keeping counters straight, and sometime even addressing circulars.

She was not trained for her job, but Mrs. Jack Speight showed her the basic points of being a saleslady.

Judy now works after school on Monday and Friday from 3:00 to 5:00, and on Saturday from 9:00 to 6:00.

She participates in many activities here at Fulton High. She is the president of the F.H.A., a member of the 4-H Club, Nurses Club, the Quill and Scroll, and copy editor on THE KENNEL staff. Recently she was selected in the Senior's Who's Who, as Best School Citizen, along with Wayne Anderson.

Her favorite subject in school is English.

Kay, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Avon French, is employed at the Ben Franklin 5c and 10c Store. Her employer is Mr. W. M. Adams.

Her duties are much the same as Judy's, as she waits on customers, fills up stock and straightens up counters. Her special department is the toy counter. Aside from these duties, she takes care of the freight and makes out reports, works at the checkout counter, and helps decorate the windows.

The only training Kay received was being shown where the merchandise was kept during her first days on the job.

Kay says, "I have worked at Ben Franklin's for a year now, but it takes about two to really learn everything in the store."

She works every day after school from 2:00 to 5:30, and on Saturday from 9:00 to 8:30. She is planning to work every day during Christmas.

Kay likes her job and her employer very much. She says the only disadvantage she can see is that it keeps her away from her school work.

Kay also takes part in many school activities. She is a member of the F.H.A., the 4-H Club, the Nurses Club, and the band.

Her favorite subject in school is American History.

UK Building Named In Honor Of Professor

The name "James Byron Kelley Hall" was formerly bestowed upon the agricultural engineering building at the University of Kentucky recently by the school's trustees.

The action was to honor Prof. Kelley, who taught at the University for 40 years before going on a change of work status in September.

Prof. Kelley, who came to UK in 1919, was awarded the highest honor of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers this summer by the organization's national president.

Typing Class Ends Project Assignments

From The FHS "Kennel"

The members of the advanced typing class recently finished their annual projects. It took four weeks to complete this assignment. The class had to make layouts for two French folders, a poster, a newspaper, and a formal program. Each student had to run off two of their layouts — one on the ditto machine and one on the mimeograph. They were then distributed to the entire class to be made into a booklet along with their own layouts.

Are In UK AG College 2 New Departments

Three new departments in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics have been created by action of the University of Kentucky trustees.

Formerly sections in the Animal Industry Group, the new departments are Animal Husbandry, Dairy and Poultry.

"The change was made to give full recognition to the growing importance of animal husbandry, dairying, and poultry in Kentucky agriculture," Dr. Frank J. Welch, dean of the college, said. "The change is also in keeping with the administrative organization of many land-grant institutions throughout the country."

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homra of Ridgely, Tenn., are the proud parents of a seven pound, five ounce daughter born at 12:05 p. m., December 17, 1959 at the Obion County Hospital in Union City. Mrs. Homra is the former Shirley Homra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Homra of Fulton.

Respectable Social Drinker Is Worst Killer On Highway

It is not the reeling drunk, but the respectable "social" drinker—the person rarely, if ever, visibly intoxicated—who is the worst killer on American highways.

This conclusion, based on accident statistics, is reported in an October Reader's Digest article, "Driver Had Been Drinking," by Paul W. Kearney. More than half of all highway deaths involve motorists not listed as "drunken drivers," but given the milder police symbol of HBD—"Had Been Drinking."

A growing body of evidence and opinion indicates, Kearney writes, that medical standards for measuring driver drunkenness (.15 percent of alcohol in the blood proves intoxication; from .05 percent up may suggest it) are far too liberal. Driving skill actually begins to slip measurably after more than one drink—or at about one fifth the level our courts consider intoxicating. Seven world medical authorities said at the Symposium on Alcohol and Road Traffic at the University of Indiana in 1958: "A blood alcohol concentration of .05 percent will definitely impair the driving ability of some individuals — at a concentration of .10 percent all individuals are definitely impaired."

The typical drinker reaches the .05 percent level with two ounces of whiskey taken within an hour. If he takes four more in the next two or three hours, he probably will reach the .15 percent level. But even at the lower point, a driver will have difficulty deciding what to do in an emergency involving judgment. Although hand and foot reaction time may still be good, he will take much too long deciding how to react. Also, he will develop an insouciant, "so what" attitude.

Autopsies on drivers killed in Montana disclosed that 55 percent of them had enough alcohol in their blood to impair driving; in Nassau County, N. Y., 50 percent; Grand Rapids, Mich., 60 percent; Baltimore, 52 percent.

Of 69 drivers killed in New York City in 1957, medical analysis showed that 38 had been drinking. In Westchester County, N. Y., autopsies on 83 drivers in single-vehicle accidents—those involving just one car and no pedestrians—disclosed that 69 percent had been drinking enough to impair skill. A similar test by Delaware State Police showed 80 percent had been drinking.

A simple key to accident prevention, Kearney suggests, is for the person who plans to drive later to limit himself to one drink per hour. (It goes without saying that any motorist should be a teetotaler on the road.) Since the average 10-pound adult will oxidize about two thirds of an ounce of whiskey in an hour, one ounce of whiskey is considered safe drinking for people who are going to drive home sometime later. Such an intake would hardly register in a chemical test an hour after the last drink.

At Last — A Market For Pine
For ten years I have dedicated the month of March to holding tree planting demonstrations in this area. During this time, about all I could tell a landowner was the fact that pine trees could hold eroded hillsides and in the long run conserve and rebuild his soil. I have had the question asked me many, many times, "Will I be able to sell these trees when they mature?" I have always been optimistic as to marketing these thousands of pine trees we plant each season.

Down

One decade ago, Kentucky planted less than one million trees. This next planting season will go well over seventy million. Kentucky is making progress in forestry and particularly pine trees. When the first harvest is made, I am sure Kentucky will really advance in planting.

It is time I gave you more information about this new market. The Tennessee River Pulp & Paper Company of Counce, Tennessee has under construction a thirty-five-million dollar pulpwood mill. This are will be in the trade territory of the mill. In other words, there will be a concentration yard in Western Kentucky where farmers will sell their pine trees in the form of pulpwood.

Two weeks ago, I spent the day

The Fulton News, Wednesday, Dec. 23, 1959 Page 7

with Mr. A. K. Dexter, Woodlands Manager for the Company. We looked over pine plantations in the area. He was impressed, but we need more to really get into business.

A tree farm of pines would not be much work for anyone. Keep the fire out and watch them grow. You could even help growth with a little fertilizer (no lime) if you chose. If you have a back forty or even five or six acres, think it over. What has it returned in the last ten to fifteen years. What do you intend doing with it for the next ten-fifteen years. Yes, pine trees could be your best bet.

It is time to be thinking about pine tree orders and your District Forester is anxious to get your name for an order now. For more information, contact your Forester, Soil Conservation Service, County Agent or you could even ask me. I know very little about most everything. Remember, you can profit from planting pine on poor soil.

Our personal wishes for all of you - - - A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS !

At this season of the year when we pause to reflect on our blessings, we realize our good fortune in being associated with the good people of the twin cities of Fulton and South Fulton. We appreciate your friendship and your loyalty to us over the past twenty-two years, and value it as one of our most important assets.

During the past year we have realized the dream of opening a new and modern plant in South Fulton, and we believe that we have been able to make a contribution to the economic growth of the twin Cities and the Kent-Tenn area.

To the citizens and officials of Fulton and South Fulton, to everybody, --- we say 'Thank You' for your cooperation and our sincere greetings for a Happy Holiday Season.

Mail Destroyed By Fire At P. O. In Mayfield

Fire broke out in a room at the post office in Mayfield early Monday morning and destroyed all the mail for six rural routes.

Postmaster A. R. Anderson said there were a few parcels among the mail, but most of the loss was to letters and Christmas cards.

Anderson estimated damage at about $50,000. He said defective wiring apparently was the cause of the blaze which was discovered at 2:30 a. m. Firemen doused it before it could spread to other rooms of the building.

There was one joyful note, however, for the folks who lost their Christmas mail:

Also destroyed were the monthly bills from the Western Kentucky Rural Electric Co-operative.

Reviewing a Day With Mr. Martin Shows That Much Is Involved in Running a High School

From The FHS "Kennel"—

Did you ever wonder just exactly what a principal does in an average day? There is quite a bit of work involved in running a high school. If there is anyone who doubts this, just spend a day with Mr. Martin. An average day would be something like the following:

Mr. Martin is usually up and dressed by 5:45. He then eats a good breakfast, always consisting of some meat. Sometime before 7:00 he stops in at the coffee shop and chats as he drinks another cup of coffee. He is always at school by 7:00.

First, there is always some business left over from the previous day. After attending to this, there are always the excuses for the absentees to be seen about, and any other thing that pops up before first period. First period is a do-all hour. After a ball game, there is money to be counted and carried to the bank. Second period he tries to get all of his mail opened, read, and answered. Third period is more or less like the first. Fourth period he teaches a class in biology, and fifth he has one in chemistry. He brings his lunch to school and eats it downstairs. Any additional business is taken care of sixth period. Mr. Martin usually gets away from school a little after four, except at the end of the month when he has to get out the monthly report. Then it is usually quite a bit later before he is able to get away.

Mr. Martin was born in 1907 in Davies County, Kentucky, near Owensboro. He graduated from high school in 1924, and then went to Western State where he graduated in three years. He then taught science and coached at Martin from 1927 to 1931. During 1931-32 he finished the work on his Masters Degree and taught at Western. He then came to Fulton as principal of Carr Institute until 1937, when he went to work for West Kentucky Finance Company. He joined the army in 1942. After returning to civilian life in 1945, he and a partner founded the City Electric Company on Commercial Avenue. At the same time he also taught G. I. Agriculture at Hickman. Before coming to Fulton High as principal, he taught four years at South Fulton.

Besides his own home, Mr. Martin owns two rental houses and the building formerly occupied by the City Electric Company. He is a member of the Elks Club, and the Baptist Church.

From The FHS "Kennel"—

Cafeteria Sports Lengthy History

With meals served each day in the basement of the high school building, the cafeteria got its start in 1923. In 1928, when the Science Hall was built, the cafeteria was moved to where the farm shop and mechanical drawing room are now located. In 1942 the cafeteria facilities were again moved, this time to newly completed Carr Elementary, scene of today's operations.

Part of the food served in the cafeteria is secured from wholesale distributors and local merchants, and the rest from the government. The school gets about $1,500 worth of food a year, and, in addition, the government pays two cents toward each bottle of milk.

The workers in the cafeteria this year are Mrs. John Binkley, Mrs. Karrie Platt, Mrs. James Haygood, and Mrs. Bessie Green, the manager. Mrs. Gilbert DeMyer, Fulton High home economics teacher, plans the menus for each meal.

The duties of these ladies each day are to prepare the meals and to serve them. They begin work each morning at 8:00, and leave at approximately 2:50, after they have cleaned up the cafeteria. They serve from 150 to 200 meals to the elementary and high school students each day.

From The FHS "Kennel"—

School Offers Music Courses to Students

Carr Elementary and the junior high are very lucky to have public school music, even though it receives little publicity. It is a great advantage many schools do not recognize, and is one of the most modern subjects.

Consciously, it teaches students to read music, to count time, to learn rhythm, to harmonize, and to recognize different classes of music.

Subconsciously, it gives a great appreciation for the art of music.

The Glee Club is a more advanced form of public school music. It is offered to both boys and girls, but mainly girls participate.

A person who really has a true appreciation for music will never be at loss in any crowd.

eyes. Her jeweled hand gracefully remained in her lap.

"Ah, my good Hector, you do pay us an honor," she said calmly with only the slightest smile.

"But, my lady, it is you who had done us the honor of radiating your beauty upon us," the Landowner replied.

"I see that my Lord Hector is indeed hungry this night," the Scribe said, each word filled with sharpness much like the soldier's blade upon the soft skin of the enemy.

"It is food that I would have and none the folly of words for they fill not the belly," the Landowner laughed.

"Yes, my Lord Hector, fear not for your belly is indeed full. Words fill the brain. These days most brains starve for good words as many bellies are starved," replied the Scribe adamantly.

"Indeed, now!" laughed the Landowner, slightly irritated. "Ah, but is time to eat. Let us make merry for tomorrow we pay dearly."

"My Good Hector, need you bring up such unpleasant matters as taxes. You are intent on ruining the supper of everyone else," Brackus said sardonically, a trifle bored with the bulbous peasant of accidental wealth.

At that moment the Innkeeper and his wife entered with wine for their guests. He was a short rotund man, jolly and simple hearted and his wife was of kind heart. For years they had served the public and knew their trade of satisfying their customers and guests. The wife was very outgoing and motherly. It was her nature to want things in their proper sphere and in good order.

She served the wine to each guest. Shortly all had enough to restore good nature and induce a mutual congeniality.

The soldier told of his battles. "And I have killed more than one hundred men in one battle alone and captured the general. For this I was awarded the highest honors. The way to immortality is through glorious battle."

"Ah, so it may be, my fine Claudius," said Hedonious, "but do you know the delicacies of movement and motion, every breath controlled, every thought concentrated into grace until movement and music are one. I have danced before the greatest of Kings and Emperors. I shall be remembered as the greatest dancer to have performed."

But to live each moment as one is expected to live," said Dorethea, her cold resonant tones with great authority and sensitiveness, "that is the way of life one should lead. To be born to a station and uphold that station. I was born to a great family. To maintain their dignity and always exalt the glorious dynasty, above all remain pure and unblemished by compromise or defeat. This is immortality."

"This may be true, my fair Lady," said the Scribe, "but your body shall die and your bones shall crumble with your dynasty. But the words and thoughts of man live after him. His recorded words last the ages. It is the written word that shall live when we have ceased to be. Without writing, memories grow short, music forgotten, names unremembered, history nothing but meaningless ruins. The word is immortal."

"Bash!" cried Hector, much under the influence of the innkeeper's wine. "Who cares of the unborn distant future. Now is the immortal, you fools! Look at the pleasure of the grape and the yield of the land. Taste its filling and satisfying quality. It is real and touchable. Who cares for a word. They only cause confusion because none of them put together ever mean the same thing to everyone. But food and drink and pleasure! Ah! That is the immortality you seek, the present!"

"That may be, good Hector," said Brackus, "but have you ever seen the beauty of objects from foreign and exotic places, silks, shoes, jewels, cloth, metalwork? Have you ever touched its delicacy, its richness, or realized how much craftsmanship went into its construction. Have you thought of the adventure and capital it takes to bring you your fine clothing and furnishings for your house. Will your fields clothe your stuffs naked belly or shod your huge hoofs? No, my friend, immortality lies in the pleasure of owning and obtaining these materials for pleasure, comfort, and need."

The innkeeper and his wife listened in awed silence to the discussion when there was a knock on the door. Slowly, he got up from his seat, a little annoyed because he was enjoying the conversation. He opened the door and the light from within fell upon a man, tall and sturdy of excellent features, who was probably a shepherd or tradesman.

"Yes, what may I do for you?" asked the innkeeper.

"I would like a room for my wife and myself."

"I'm sorry, but we are full here. Perhaps you had better try someplace else," said the innkeeper, businesslike and slightly irritated because he was missing the conversation from within.

"But we have tried so many places and we are so tired," the stranger said gently.

"I'm sorry, but . . ."

"I must find someplace, for my wife is with child." The stranger's eyes were intense, filled with power and sincerity. "You must have someplace . . ."

"Well, I don't know." The innkeeper scratched his head and stopped to study a moment. His wife had joined him and stood by him patiently and watched the stranger. She had never seen anyone quite like him before. Deep inside her she liked him.

From within the voices floated toward the innkeeper and began inquiring who it was and what they wanted at this hour. The innkeeper turned about and told them. "And his wife is with child. What am I to do. I can't turn them away, but I have no place left for them."

Dorethea turned about to see the man. She had seen thousands like him before, but she knew not what it was about the man that disturbed her. Something puzzled her and she did not like it. Immediately, she disliked the man as though he were a challenge to her. Then, a soft cruel smile crept into the corner of her mouth.

"My good innkeeper," she began very calmly with a cold level voice that even surprised her, "why not let them stay in your stable - if there's room." She then curled up back in her chair and waited for the innkeeper to respond.

"I'm very sorry, but it is all I have, but you're welcome to it if you don't mind it." The innkeeper said indifferently with a shrug of the shoulder.

"O yes, it will do fine. We are so tired and have traveled so far," the stranger said simply. The innkeeper disappeared into the dark with the stranger toward the direction of the stable to show him the way.

Inside the inn the guests who had come to Bethlehem to pay their taxes continued their conversation and returned to their refilled cups of wine. They did not know that a child was being born.

The innkeeper scratched his head and stopped to study a moment. His wife had joined him and stood by him patiently and watched the stranger. She had never seen anyone quite like him before. Deep inside her she liked him.

From within the voices floated toward the innkeeper and began inquiring who it was and what they wanted at this hour. The innkeeper turned about and told them. "And his wife is with child. What am I to do. I can't turn them away, but I have no place left for them."

Dorethea turned about to see the man. She had seen thousands like him before, but she knew not what it was about the man that disturbed her. Something puzzled her and she did not like it. Immediately, she disliked the man as though he were a chal-

Season Catching, So Don't Resist

From The FHS "Kennel"—

By Bill Wade

Christmas is rolling around once more and even the sourist folks are getting the Christmas spirit. With the idea in mind that we have a two week vacation starting in about 3 days, everyone is being kind and generous for a change.

Many of the students are planning big weekends for the Christmas holidays. Some want to visit grandmother and grandfather, others want to catch up on lost sleep, while still others just want to spend a quiet, peaceful weekend at home. As you can tell, there are going to be many busy people this Christmas and it looks as if there is not going to be any time for studying or working.

There should be many parties and the exchanging of gifts between many people this Christmas, and the holidays should be enjoyed by all. This being the last week before the holidays, everyone is a little lax—but this will vanish when we come back next year.

After such a long and enjoyed holiday I know everyone will be happy to get back to the good old routine of everyday school work, and also to show off the new coat or new dress that Santa Claus brought them.

After we get back it will be but a short time before the semester exams will begin - and we all know what that means. With that happy thought, I'll wish you a MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

High Stepping Majorettes Help Spirit

From the FHS KENNEL—

By Wanda Cash

The high-stepping majorettes marching in front of the Fulton High band look very colorful in their new outfits.

The duties of a majorette are not always easy. It is necessary for them to march at half-time during football games, whether the weather is hot or cold. Also they participate in Christmas parades and various other events throughout the year.

Martha DeMyer, a freshman, is the newest majorette. She is a reporter on the KENNEL Staff and a member of the F. H. A. and the 4-H Club. Martha is an honor roll student. When she was asked how she like being a majorette, she replied, "I think being a majorette is worthwhile because it gives me experience before crowds."

Elaine Beggs, a junior, became a majorette when she was a sophomore. She is a member of the Future Nurses Club and is on the honor roll. She says, "I enjoy being a majorette very much, and I feel very relaxed while I am marching."

Ophelia Speight, the Drum Majorette, is a junior, and this is her second year to be a majorette. She is very active in school affairs and is also an honor roll student, the secretary of the Future Nurses Club and of her class, and a member of the National Honor Society. Ophelia commented, "I like being a majorette because I enjoy marching, and it gives me an opportunity to participate in school activities."

Sandra Williams, a junior, also became a majorette when she was a sophomore. She is an honor roll student and a member of the Future Nurses Club and the Senior Girl Scouts. She explains, "I think being a majorette is fun, and I enjoy doing it. We try to give the team and fans school spirit."

Sandra Latham, a senior, has been a majorette for two years. She is a member of the Future Nurses Club and the 4-H Club, and is secretary of F. H. A. She, too, is on the honor roll. Sandra said, "Being a majorette is the one thing that has made high school enjoyable for me. I have always enjoyed it, and I think it's a great honor to be a majorette." Her performances with her fire baton have been especially noteworthy.

CORN LOAN ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS CHANGED

Price-support eligibility requirements for 1959-crop corn have been changed to increase the maximum permitted moisture content by one-half of 1 percent, according to Roy Bard, Chairman, of the Fulton County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

This is the approximate effect of the change in the basic method of determining the moisture-content of corn under the new U. S. Grain Standards, revised this year. The revised standards became effective October 1, 1959.

To be eligible for farm-storage loans, under the revised eligibility requirements, 1959-crop ear corn must have a moisture-content not in excess of 21.0 percent through Feb. 1960, 19.5 percent during March 1960, 18 percent during April 1960, and 16 percent during May 1960. Maximum permitted moisture-content is changed from 13.5 to 14.0 percent for shelled corn under farm-storage loans and for corn in approved warehouse storage.

Further information about price-support loans on corn and other crops may be obtained from the County ASC Office.

Pair Of Happy Gorillas Star At Washington Zoo

Washington — Two playful gorillas brought up on a modern scientific diet and old-fashioned affection are star attractions at the National Zoological Park here.

The happy apes are Moka and Nikumba, who like nothing better than a romp around the cage with their keeper and enjoy entertaining Zoo visitors.

Moka, female, six years old; and Nikumba, male, five and a half, are among the select company of gorillas in captivity. There are only about two dozen in United States zoos, the National Geographic Society says.

Natives of French Africa

The pair came to Washington in 1955 from their native French Equatorial Africa. Moka weighed 20 pounds and Nikumba 17 pounds. Today — thanks to a carefully planned diet — Moka is a sleek 130 pounds and Nikumba a solid 165 pounds.

Gorillas once were a rarity in captivity because it was thought they could live on fruits alone, even though they languished on such a diet. They are subject to many human ailments, especially tuberculosis, bronchial disorders, and colds. With proper food and attention, gorillas in zoos now grow as heavy as 600 pounds and should live as long as 40 years.

Moka and Nikumba started on a milk formula, similar to a human baby's, supplemented with oranges, bread, sweet potatoes, and regular baby food custard pudding.

They now get three hearty meals a day, consisting principally of a slab-shaped cake called "Diet A," meat mixed with six kinds of grain and other ingredients. Diet A is supplemented by oranges, kale, and spoon-fed vitamins. The gorillas consider the oily vitamins a great treat. They smack their lips and grab for the bottle.

Nikumba and Moka were kept behind glass in their early years at the Zoo to prevent infection. The outdoor portion of their cage now is not glassed.

Besides proper food and protection, the pair get affection and attention from their keepers. Nikumba is a "regular boy" who always has liked to roughhouse and enjoys taking his keeper's hands and leading him on a fast run around the cage.

Moka, however, likes to be cuddled. The first time the attendant went into the cage, she screamed for 45 minutes and would not let him out. She wanted be held.

Perform for Audience

When a suitable crowd gathers and the spirit moves them, Moka will clap her hands and Nikumba will pat his feet. Nikumba also stands on one foot and twirls.

Like all male gorillas, Nikumba occasionally beats his chest with his fists. Moka sally responds by patting herself on the rust-colored fur covering her head.

Both are well-behaved, though Moka likes to tease the keepers by running off with her water pan, and Nikumba becomes upset when he is put in a new cage or locked out of part of the regular pen. Nikumba is unusual among apes in that he has never thrown a temper tantrum.

Neither has displayed any of the antics of Bamboo, the famous gorilla who has spent 32 years in the Philadelphia Zoo. Bamboo likes to throw things, and his aim with a soggy watermelon rind is deadly. He catches his victims unaware by pretending to look in another direction.

Fallout Shelters Are Eligible For F. H. A. Loans

Plans to stimulate construction of fallout shelters in homes have been announced by Kentucky Civil Defense officials.

They said the Federal Housing Administration and the Office of Civil Defense Administration will encourage contractors and individuals to set an example by incorporating shelters in new housing developments, subdivisions and model homes.

F. H. A. financing will be made available for construction of family fallout shelters, the Kentucky C. D. officials said.

They added that the two federal agencies will offer technical advice on financing and construction of fallout shelters to individuals and top officials in the home building trade.

Kentucky C. D. experts quoted Federal Housing Administrator Norman P. Mason: "There has been a series of conferences throughout the country during which all F. H. A. field directors were given preliminary briefing on the new program to include shelter construction as an eligible item in the home mortgage program."

O. C. D. M. Director Leo A. Hoegh was quoted: "In the event of nuclear attack upon this country, fallout shelters offer the best single non-military defense measure for the protection of the greatest number of people. Most of those beyond the range of nuclear blast and heat would survive if they had adequate protection from fallout."

NEW YEAR'S DAY

January 1 became generally accepted as New Year's Day in the 1500's when the Gregorian calendar was introduced, according to World Book Encyclopedia. But the new year still begins March 21 in Iran. And the Hindus have a different New Year's Day for each of their many religious groups.

TID BITS of Kentucky Folklore by The Philosopher

"Selecting A Grandfather"

Holmes once said that a fellow did well to select the right grandfather. I am afraid that most of us could not have done quite so well as he did in making this selection, but many of us could make out a good apology for ourselves by telling what backgrounds seemed to make us what we are or have been. In telling of my own experience, I know that I am also telling the backgrounds of many of my contemporaries; you will pardon, I hope, the seeming egotism of this article, for it is about you as well as about me.

To begin with, I was born in a remote country area that had been little touched by modern changes. My family was conservative and had always been; they were not aware of this but lived a straight-laced but very consistent Scotch-Irish life, asking nothing of the world and not grumbling if they got little. My neighbors were plain, hard-working people, somewhat stolid and ordinary, but with some desire to know about great books and great events. Many of the old men had been pioneers, who had come all the way from North Carolina and had brought a rather full folk life with them, including their religion, their politics, and their slaves. The men in middle life were largely Confederate veterans, varying from rather well-informed readers of history to somewhat illiterate old boys who knew only the Civil War as it was related to their company. Nobody had a college education, nobody had even a high school education, but books circulated from house to house, and I often heard wise discussions of what many people had read. Though our neighborhood was pretty democratic, there were dimly defined caste lines, largely made by the people themselves, for high and low were found in the same families. There was nothing of the aristocratic except in some big talk that was usually discounted for nearly every user of it. Our little school was the typical one-roomed, sorry building, with no teacher who had had as much as a year of high school work. In spite of this, I repeat, there was much respect for learning, though it was not always easy to tell the true learning from the false.

To my father I owed much, for because he was a physician, I got to see every kind of person in the whole world, it seemed to me then. He was the doctor of them all and did not allow us to make fun of even the humblest. Mother lost no time in showing us which ones were people whom we could associate with and which ones must be treated kindly but not as equals. At school whatever caste lines there were became pretty thin, though older people knew and recognized them. Through my early years I watched the procession of the halt and the maimed and the blind and the half-witted come to Father for help. I soon knew many strange stories about them, not from Father, who was very tight-lipped. By degrees I saw the quaint customs of our neighbors and of ourselves and actually put down some of them, along with my incessant tabulating of species and varieties of plants and animals. All this took place before I left Fidelity at eighteen to make my way in the world.

As soon as I got away, I began to make comparisons and to discover the many ways in which people could do the most ordinary things. That opened my eyes to folk customs even more, and I began to record some of these oddities, for at first my folklore was largely confined to exceptional people and happenings. Then came study and reading of innumerable books on folk tales and myths and anthropology and other related subjects. I discovered that I had had a great folk background, that almost everything I had done or known was distinctly folkish, even when I imagined that I was being educated and bookish. When I finally came to see the value of ordinary folk customs and not merely oddities, I knew that I had found my niche in the folklore game. My purpose since then has been to try to interpret how we ordinary people think and act as we do, why we change so reluctantly, why we persist in our folkishness when it would be easier to change. My backgrounds have finally paid off.

DEATHS

Mrs. Herbert Beck

Mrs. Nell Matthews Beck, wife of Herbert Beck, was found dead at her home, 3558 Fawn Cove, Memphis, Thursday about 6 by her husband when he returned from work.

Mrs. Beck who was 53, had suffered from a heart condition for 12 years.

She was born in Union City, but lived in Fulton for many years, moving to Memphis about 20 years ago. She was a Methodist.

Besides her husband she leaves a son, Pfc. Herbert Beck, Jr., of Fort Sill, Okla., a brother, Payne R. (Able) Matthews of Columbus, Ala.; two sisters, Mrs. E. C. Howell of Detroit and Mrs. Addie Cunningham of Evansville, Ind.

Funeral services for Mrs. Beck, the former Nell Matthews of Fulton, were held at 10 a. m. Sunday at the National Funeral Home in Memphis. The burial was in Greenlea cemetery here at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Lola Gilliam

Mrs. Lola Pearl Gilliam, 70, widow of Claude E. Gilliam, died Saturday morning about 1:30 a. m. at the Obion County Hospital at Union City.

Survivors include a half-sister, Mrs. Jewell Rose of Fulton and a half-brother, James Robertson of Fulton.

Funeral services were Sunday at 2 o'clock at the Church of Christ. Oliver Cunningham officiated and burial by Whitnel Funeral Home was in Sandy Branch cemetery.

Active pallbearers were her nephews—James Robertson, Edmond King, Jack Meadows, Hasell Williams, Thomas Dedmon and Calvin Conley.

The past, the present and the future are really one—they are today.

Well arranged time is the surest mark of a well arranged mind.

Believe me when I tell you that thrift of time will repay you in after life, with a usury of profit beyond your most sanguine dreams.

All successful individuals have become such by hard work; by improving moments before they pass into hours, and hours that other people may occupy in the pursuit of pleasure.

Reason, too late perhaps, may convince you of the folly of mispending time.

Nothing is a waste of time if you use the experience wisely.

This is no time for ease and comfort. It is the time to dare and endure.

THE BIG SCRAMBLE IN THE EGG BUSINESS

There are many changes taking place in egg production and marketing, not only here in our area, but all over the nation. Without any doubt, many egg producers will be affected in one way or another.

We find that many areas are now striving for self-sufficiency in the business of producing eggs as well as some other farm commodities. Yet, the real problem is not in the field of production as much as it is in marketing. This is our main problem and is where greatest emphasis should be placed.

The farm size flock of from 30 to 300 hens is fast disappearing. In

RUPTURE
The Sensational New Invention fact, for some time this group has been losing out to the larger producers who have gone to automation and many related methods of egg production. Volume production plus lower costs of production is of prime importance today, if you are to remain in business.

Commercial egg production is highly specialized and are in better position to lower feed costs, produce more uniform high quality eggs in large volume, thereby enabling a more economic operation the year around. Higher production per hen can also be obtained where more emphasis is placed on the operation and this has been one item that has commanded much favor with the larger producers.

Southern egg producers are in position to command a large part of the egg business provided they are willing to meet the demands of the consumers by producing nothing except good quality eggs.

Larger stores are constantly striving to obtain a larger share of the consumer egg trade, not necessarily for the added volume and profit from eggs but because eggs may help attract more store traffic and as a result, aid in increasing the total volume of many other items in the store. These stores buy in volume to meet their needs. Also they are quite conscious of uniformity in food products and have a keen feel of the consumers thoughts and wants.

The demand for uniformity has been one of the big stimulants behind control and quality egg production. Remember, efficiency is the key to successful production or marketing.

Dear Editor:

I want to wish a Merry Christmas to the many Kentuckians who have written to me of their desire to help in my work for Korean children. I wonder how many would help fill an ocean freighter, to be known as the Kentucky Friendship, with many things for these hungry children and their orphanages and hospitals. A person never feels so tall as when stooping to lift a child.

This holiday season we are buying gifts for our loved ones.
Won't you please also remember a Korean child with at least $1?

I learned during my travels in Korea that a battle is being fought for the minds of these children. They will either turn to our Christian philosophy or to Communism.

The Kentucky Friendship will be dedicated to the late Vice-President Alben Barkley of Kentucky, a friend of Korean President Syngman Rhee. On the Kentucky Friendship I hope to place 500 head of livestock, hospital equipment, farm tools, medicine, vitamins and many other things to help Koreans help themselves.
Your gift will be spent most wisely.

Radiation Detection Equipment To Be Used For Civil Defense

From The FHS Kennel—

Mr. Martin has recently received a radiation detection unit to be used for civil defense purposes. The instruments in this unit include radiological dosimeters, survey meters, a portable charger, and two comparison standards for food and water.

Mr. Martin will conduct a class in the use of these instruments.
The class will be open to anyone interested, and will probably include several senior and junior science students and various city officials.

Fulton High would be utilized after a natural disaster until improved facilities were available.

Civil defense preparations may seem useless for a small school and a small town, but data released by the Atomic Energy Commission proves otherwise. In the March 1, 1954 test explosion of a nuclear bomb, there was complete destruction to an area of one hundred square miles, heavy to moderate damage over an additional one thousand square miles, and a fallout area that covered seven thousand square miles. In a larger explosion, fallout could conceivably cover one hundred thousand square miles.

Even though it is a major railroad center, Fulton itself may not rate as a target — but Kentucky Dam, Paducah (with its atomic works), Memphis, Nashville, St.
Louis, and other area cities are quite eligible.

Carlisle Wins Over Fulton Thursday Night

Carlisle County rolled over Fulton City 68-46 here Thursday night.

The Comets jumped into an 18-12 first quarter lead and increased their bargain to 34-22 at the intermission. Carlisle upped the score to 46-28 after three periods of action and went on to win going away in notching their 11th straight win of the season.

With the sharp shooting of Ronnie Wilmoth and the rebounding of Charlie Blackwell the Comets proved to be too much for the smaller Fulton City quintet.

Wilmoth finished with scoring honors for the Comets as he hit the hoop for 23 markers.

Jerry Laceywell paced the losers as he hit for 18 points.

TB Association Has Received Encouraging Word

The Kentucky Tuberculosis Association received encouraging word today from Howard Hunt, Association President. Mr. Hunt said, "The people are demonstrating that they are behind the fight to eradicate tuberculosis which still kills more people than any other infectious disease."

However, the increasing cost of control and treatment of tuberculosis, allows no tightening of the reins as the program must progress at full speed if TB is to be overcome in Kentucky.

Hospitalization, medical care, nursing, surgery when needed, and a continuous flow of drugs to indigent patients, are a few of the components that ran the average treatment cost of just one case to between $14,000 and $15,000.

Considering the 7,000 recorded TB cases, and the annual detection of an additional 1,500 new cases in Kentucky, the potential reaches an alarming figure.

Physical aid in combatting this contagious disease emanates from such large organizations as the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, State Board of Health, Trudeau Society and the Kentucky Mountain Club. Many civic-minded individuals lend untiringly of their efforts and unite with the members.

Christmas presents were presented to Mrs. Martha Logan, club pianist, and Mrs. Fannie Williams, who serves the club each week.

The next meeting will be held on January 8.

The club voted to give Mrs. Walter Voepel $25 to use as she sees fit, and to give $25 to the Youth Center to go toward buying a heater for the place.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Not Everyone Celebrates Beginning Of The New Year On January First

Not everyone celebrates the beginning of the New Year on January 1. But people in all parts of the world have special customs to insure that the New Year will get off to a good start.

Church services and frantic parties, for example, are typical ways of celebrating in the U. S.

In many European countries, gifts are exchanged on New Year's Day. The custom originated with the Romans, according to World Book Encyclopedia. Back in 747 B. C., reportedly, they presented the king of the Sabines with branches of bay and palm trees consecrated to Strenia, the goddess of strength. The "strenae," or gifts, became more elaborate, in expectation of royal favor, and the emperors came to regard them as deserved tribute.

Augustus Caesar is said to have passed the word along that he had had a vision in which he saw himself receiving gifts from the Senate and the people on January 1.

Claudius finally stopped the influence-peddling by limiting the cost of gifts.

Henry III introduced the custom into England in the 1200's, and Elizabeth I collected enough loot to replenish her wardrobe for a year. The custom went out with Oliver Cromwell.

In Scotland, bad luck is in store for a family if the first person to set foot in the house on New Year's Day is a woman - or a gravedigger - or a person who walks with his toes turned in - or a man with red or blonde hair.

To minimize the risk, the Scots appoint a tall, dark man as the "first-footer." On New Year's Day he enters each house in silence, places a bundle of fagots on the fire, then wishes the family good luck.

Even the poorest Chinese buy new shoes for the holiday, because it is bad luck to step down on the ground into old shoes on New Year's Day. And the Portuguese ignore their debts, because the man who pays a bill on this day will pay out money all year.

The Brazilians open the New Year by expressing the hope of all men - they designate January 1 as the Day of Universal Brotherhood.

ENVY

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

If you wish to travel far and fast, travel light. Take off all your envies, jealousies, unforgiveness, selfishness and fears.

—Glenn Clark

Envy always implies conscious inferiority wherever it resides.

Pliny

To envy's own hell, justice consigns the lie which, to advance itself, breaks God's commandments.

—Mary Baker Eddy

If we did but know how little some enjoy of the great things that they possess, there would not be much envy in the world.

—Edward Young

The most common disguise of envy is in the praise of what is subordinate.

—Washington Allston

Student Teachers Gain Experience Through Duties At Fulton High

From The FHS "Kenne!"

There are two student teachers in our high school this semester. They are Carl Dasenbrock-industrial arts, and Burton Nichol-commerce.

Mr. Dasenbrock was born in Teutopolis, Illinois. He went to high school there and was active in sports. He attended Eastern University in Illinois for two and a half years, and has been going to Murray State College two years, planning to graduate in June. He is on the tennis team and spends his spare time hunting and fishing.

His daily schedule is: 2nd hour-observing advanced woodworking, 3rd hour-teaching beginning shop, and 4th hour-study hall.

He goes back to classes at Murray each afternoon.

He said that student teaching has been a good experience for him. He plans to take a permanent teaching job in industrial arts when he finishes college because he is interested in the field and likes to be around young people.

Mr. Nichol was born in Sandusky, Michigan. After graduating from high school there, he spent twenty-one months in the Army. This is his fourth year to attend Murray State College, and he will graduate at mid-term this year.

He attends classes at Murray in the morning and starts his schedule here 4th hour by observing the typing class that period. He has study hall 5th hour and teaches the 6th hour typing class.

He plans to teach because it seems to present a very interesting vocation and gives proof of ones accomplishment.

Mr. Nichol and Mr. Dasenbrock share an apartment in Murray. Mr. Dasenbrock does the cooking, and Mr. Nichol does the dishwashing and house cleaning.

Red Motley To Be Speaker At Press Meeting

RED MOTLEY

Red Motley, president of Parade Publications, Inc., will be one of several featured speakers at the annual mid-winter convention of the Kentucky Press Association at the Brown Hotel in Louisville.

Daily and weekly newspapermen from all parts of the state will attend the press meeting Jan. 28-30th. Motley will speak at the Friday, Jan. 29th luncheon-meeting of the press association.

In recent years, Red Motley has become recognized as a salesman's salesman. In fact, in 1954, he was named one of "America's Twelve Master Salesmen," as well as being elected to the Hall of Fame in Distribution.

Red, who was born Arthur Harrison Motley, in Minneapolis, Minn., learned at an early age that even if you do "build a better mousetrap," you still have to let people know about it. After various ventures in the business world, he became publisher in 1946 of Parade Magazine, a color gravure supplement distributed by a number of Sunday newspapers.

When Red took over, the newspaper supplement was reaching only about two million readers. Today, it goes into more than nine million homes. Its advertising revenues have risen accordingly, advancing from slightly less than two million dollars in 1946 to approximately 25 million in 1958.

Designation of the Kentuckians of the Year for 1959 will be another feature of the Kentucky Press Association meeting.

Bulldog Squad Boasts Seventeen; Morrow Only Returning Veteran

From The FHS "Kennel"—

Basketball season opened December 1 with a game at Wingo. The Bulldogs had little practice after their tremendous victory over Mayfield. Most of the schools that Fulton plays don't have a football team, and therefore are able to practice the year around.

The Bulldogs have only one returning regular from last year's squad. He is senior Roy Morrow, 6' 1" guard. The other members are up from last year's B team to take over starting roles. They are: Bill Burnette, 6' 2" forward; Merrell Davis, 6' 2" center; Joe Bennett, 5' 8" guard; Jerry Lacewell, 6' 1" forward, and Herbert Patton, 6' 2" center.

The boys making up the B team this year are Ronny Winston, 5' 7" guard; Carl Hurst, 5' 10" forward; Kenneth Bradley, 5' 7" guard; Ladd Stokes, 5' 8" forward; and Hal Warren, 5' 8" guard. Others are Kenneth Allen, Don Burnette, Leroy Wilboure, Jimmy Cheatham, Jimmy Williams, and Johnny Covington.

Two Murray youths, arrested Sunday in connection with the hit-and-run death of Robert Earl Nance of Fulton at Mayfield Dec. 12, waived examining trials Thursday and were released under $4,000 bond each.

Phillip L. Collie, 20, is charged with voluntary manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident. George C. Cain, also 20, is charged with being an accessory before the fact of manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident.

Mr. Nance was found along side Highway 121 on Saturday morning of last week after being struck by an automobile.

Parts of the hit-and-run vehicle were found on the highway. These parts matched a damaged vehicle found in the garage of Leon Collie at Murray Sunday. Collie told state police his son, Phillip Collie, had driven the auto Friday night.

Collie and Cain will await action of the March Grand Jury.

Reb Prisoner's Autograph Book Is At The U-T Library

Autographs of some 150 imprisoned "Johnny Rebs," collected by a Southern captain during his two years in a Northern prison camp, are now in the University of Tennessee Special Collections Library.

The nearly 100-year-old autograph book, which contains the names of several Tennesseans, was made available for University use by Dr. Walter H. MacIntire, retired soil chemist of the U-T Agricultural Experiment Station, a descendant of the Rebel captain.

The young name-collector was Capt. Robert M. McIntire, who furnished the "saddles, sabres, and 12 horses" to form Co. "C", 4th Reg. of Gordon's Brigade at Wilmington, N. C. in 1862. Taken a Yankee prisoner at South Mountain, Va., in 1863, he was confined at Johnson's Island, Lake Erie, until the close of the Civil War in 1865.

Most of McIntire's fellow-prisoners at Johnson's Island recorded being captured at the Battle of Gettysburg, at which the captain also fought. Along with the place and date of their capture, the soldiers also listed their rank, regiment, and Southern address.

Some 10 Tennessee Confederate soldiers put their signatures in the book. Among them were Capt. W. L. Moore and Lt. John

H. Moore, Co. H, 14th "Tennessee Regiment," Clarksville. Both were captured at Gettysburg. Other Tennesseans signing the book were Lt. R. B. Roberts, Co.
35th. General Regiment, Altamont — captured at Ooltewah; and Brig. Gen. G. M. Gordon, C.
L. A., Nashville.

The Southern prisoners were returned south of the Mason-Dixon Line on the first boat to "break the ice on Lake Erie" in March, 1865, the book noted. It is recorded in the book that young Captain McIntire attended to "first things first," and went immediately to "Pittsboro — to see Miss Mamie Wright."

The historical autograph book is available at the University as a result of the current Library Development Drive, sponsored by the U-T Development Council.
The Council is soliciting either books or cash gifts with which to purchase books.

FOUR MEMBERS OF THE 1959-60 BULLDOGS: (L. to R.) Bill Burnette, "Sleep" Bennett, Merrell Davis, and Roy Morrow.

Bulldog Squad Boasts Seventeen; Morrow Only Returning Veteran

From The FHS "Kennel"—

Basketball season opened December 1 with a game at Wingo. The Bulldogs had little practice after their tremendous victory over Mayfield. Most of the schools that Fulton plays don't have a football team, and therefore are able to practice the year around.

The Bulldogs have only one returning regular from last year's squad. He is senior Roy Morrow, 6' 1" guard. The other members are up from last year's B team to take over starting roles. They are: Bill Burnette, 6' 2" forward; Merrell Davis, 6' 2" center; Joe Bennett, 5' 8" guard; Jerry Lacewell, 6' 1" forward, and Herbert Patton, 6' 2" center.

The boys making up the B team this year are Ronny Winston, 5' 7" guard; Carl Hurst, 5' 10" forward; Kenneth Bradley, 5' 7" guard; Ladd Stokes, 5' 8" forward; and Hal Warren, 5' 8" guard. Others are Kenneth Allen, Don Burnette, Leroy Wilboure, Jimmy Cheatham, Jimmy Williams, and Johnny Covington.

I am not afraid of tomorrow, for I have seen yesterday and I love today.

A&P Presented Two Medallions Commemorating 100th Anniversary

A pair of bronze medallions symbolizing the 100th anniversary of A & P Food Stores were presented last week to the company's Louisville Unit.

President Frank H. Bucher of the Central Western Division made the presentation on behalf of the company to Vice President Byron Jay of the Louisville Unit, his executive committee, supervisors and other associates.

Bucher said the Louisville Unit had "earned the right to this recognition through diligent application of the founder's principles and philosophies." Jay expressed appreciation to the company and the division for their support in aiding the Unit's development program during the past year. The unit is one of five in A & P's Central Western Division which operates stores, offices and warehouses in six states.

The medallions, an exact duplicate of a set especially designed for company headquarters' offices in New York, were set against a red velvet background and framed in a dark walnut case. The medallions will be permanently exhibited in the main lobby of the Louisville Unit offices.

One medallion carries likenesses of George H. Hartford, who founded A & P in 1859, and his sons, George L. and John A. The Hartford's operated the company for most of its 100 years. The other medallion marks A & P's 100th anniversary.

The present head of A & P is President Ralph W. Burger, who was closely associated with the two sons of the founder in conducting the business. A & P grew to its present 4,300 stores in 39 states from a small tea store in New York City. Founder George Hartford was 26 when he conceived the idea of selling tea at about one-third the then prevailing price by buying a clipper shipload and selling it directly to the public in New York City.

Students Selected On UK Committee

Ellen Lee Kearby and Robert D. Fields, University of Kentucky students from Hickman, have been selected to represent Fulton County on the UK Committee of 240, a leadership and information organization made up of students from all over the state.

The organization is designed to present information on the University both to high school students and to adult citizens of the community.

The student members of the committee will make arrangements with school officials to present information to high school students interested in attending the institution.

They have also been asked to appear before civic clubs, alumni groups, and other organizations to talk about policies, problems, and opportunities facing the University.

Committee of 240 members will also make arrangements in their home counties for showing of the 16mm sound and color University film, "The Golden Key."

High school principals, senior class sponsors, and organization program chairmen are invited to contact the University representatives to have them appear before their group.

Miss Kearby, a junior at the University, is the daughter of Lee R. Kearby. She is a graduate of Hickman High School. Fields, a sophomore, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Fields.

Research Teaches Much In Field of Shop

From The FHS "Kennel"

Many people and students think that in shop class all a person does is make furniture or make repairs. Along with this practical work the students also have tests and research work.

Why have research papers? They answer the questions: Who founded industrial arts? What is modern furniture? What is early American furniture? Who is Duncan Phife? Who is Thomas Shear-ton? and many more. Many people don't know the difference between modern and period furniture, or the use of the different styles.

Research papers provide knowledge for future references on these things. They also aid in finding out what design to use in projects.

A person needs to know as much about his field as he can. There is not enough class time to cover everything, so research papers help do this job.
